Minor proposes casino gambling as Mississippi revenue source

Syndicated political columnist Bill Minor told members of the Dimaondhead Community Association Friday that casino gambling on the Gulf Coast could be one of the answers to Mississippi's economic woes.

Minor, whose "Eyes on Mississip-Column appears in the Sea Coast Echo, entertained a crowd of more than 200 association members with stories about former Governor Ross Barrett and Louisiana Governor Edwin Edwards, but got serious about the state's economy.

woes go further than decreases in oil and gas severence tax revenues and current problems in timber and agriculture.

The columnist, who has covered state politics for 39 years, explained that one of the state's four biggest income producers has been federal funding.

With President Ronald Reagan's continuing cuts in that funding, Mississippi is suffering and needs to find other revenue sources, Minor

He pointed out a few examples in the area of federal revenue sharing. "Federal revenue sharing has built all the new buildings at our state-supported institutions of higher learning, it has built football stadiums, and it has even been used to move a confederate monument over in Jasper County. Since revenue sharing was cut, the state has not built one new building,"

Minor stated. He was also critical of Governor William Allain and the state legislature for imposing cuts on revenues handed down from the state to local entities, particularly in the area of education.

"The budget for textbooks was cut drastically," the columnist told his audience. "Do you realize that there are children in our schools learning history out of books that say Richard Nixon is our president?"

He cited inadequate funding as a major reason many of the state's programs have failed, using as an example a plan to provide a system of four-lane highways throughout the state.

Minor explained that the program was initiated in 1972 but was never completed because adequate funds were never allocated.

He praised citizen movements, such as the one at Diamondhead that eventually led to passage of the county unit system, and said Mississippians are beginning to mobilize against the state's poor "Mississippi needs, I think, to take some radical new approach to finding revenue. We do not need another sales tax."

Minor proposed a single casino gambling operation Gulfport resort area.

According to Minor, the operation would be virtually immune to organized crime because it would be handled by the state.

All funds going to the house would become state revenue.

After deciding not to wait for a State Attorney General's opinion concerning an incorrectly submitted bid, the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District Board has split its Segment III improvements into two contracts.

Segment III is part of a four-part improvement project that will eventually link the Bay St. Louis and Waveland sewerage systems with Waveland's wastewater plant as primary treatment facility.

Segment III involves both pipeline work and improvements designed to increase the plant's treatment capabilities.

The pipeline section of the project includes an outfall line about three miles long that will lead from the plant to the discharge point for the treated sewerage.

Also included is a pipeline from the head of Gulfside Drive to the plant itself.

According to District Administrator Ethel Schott, the legal advertisement allowed bidders three options, including the pipeline work, the plant improvements or a combination of both.

Board Attorney Lucien Gex explained the problem occurred when Carter-Mullings Construction, a Columbia firm, apparently placed the amount of its bid on the wrong line of a bidding form.

Carter-Mullings had intended to bid $3,823,621 for the plant improvements, according to the firm's attorney, Rick Yarborough, who addressed the board Wednesday night.

The bid was written on a line that indicated the firm was bidding on both the plant and the pipeline. Yarborough said his client wanted the bid changed, which would make Carter-Mullings the low bidder on the plant work.

Gex said the district had the options of letting Carter-Mullings withdraw the bid on the grounds of an honest mistake, rejecting the bid on the same grounds or accepting the bid for the plant work only. CONTRACT—Page 2A

Gex added he had found two Mississippi cases supporting the possibility that the bid could be withdrawn. In addition, he had found an attorney general's opinion stating that changing a bid would be detrimental to the competitive bidding process.

The attorney recommended allowing the bid to be withdrawn.

Lane Grigsby, president of Cajun Contractors, a Baton Rouge-based firm, also argued that the bld should not be changed to a bid for plant work only.

Cajun's bid of $3,819,000 was the next lowest bid on the plant work and the lowest bid after the Carter-Mullings bid was rejected. Harry Kaufman of Reynolds, Smith and Hills, the district's engineering firm, also recommendwithdrawn, stating that he had found other irregularities in the bld.

One of the board members, Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Franckiewicz Jr., suggested delaying the matter until an attorney general's opinion could be obtained, but Gex said it would be impossible to obtain a written opinion in time to meet a Feb. 14 funding application

Franciciewicz argued that a verbal opinion could be obtained within the 10-day deadline and a written opinion backing it up could be obtained

Gex stated he felt the district should not take action except on a written opinion, since a verbal opinion may differ.

Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr. and Board of Supervisors President A.A. Kellar voted to reject the Carter-Mullings bid and to accept the bid from Cajun for the plant work. The pipeline contract was awarded to Applied Construction of Jackson, which bid $854,638. Franckiewicz abstained from Ger added he had found two Mississippi cases supporting the possibility that the bld could be withdrawn. In addition, he had found an attorney general's opinion stating that changing a bid would be detrimental to the competitive bidding process. The attorney recommended allowing the bid to be withdrawn.

Lane Grigsby, president of Cajun Contractors, a Baton Rouge-based firm, also argued that the bid should not be changed to a bid for plant work only.

Cajun's bid of $3,819,000 was the next lowest bid on the plant work and the lowest bld after the Carter-Mullings bid was rejected.

Harry Kaulman of Reynolds, Smith and Hills, the district's engineering firm, also recommendwithdrawn, stating that he had found other irregularities in the bid.

One of the board members, Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Franckiewicz Jr., suggested delaying the matter until an attorney general's opinion could be obtained, but Gex said it would be impossible to obtain a written opinion in time to meet a Feb. 14 funding application deadline.

Franckiewicz argued that a verbal opinion could be obtained within the 10-day deadline and a written opinion backing it up could be obtained

Ger stated he felt the district should not take action except on a written opinion, since a verbal opinion may differ.

Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr. and Board of Supervisors President A.A. Kellar voted to reject the Carter-Mullings bid and to accept the bid from Cajun for the plant work. The pipeline contract was awarded to Applied Construction of Jackson, which bid $854,638.

There will be a Blood Drawing on Wednesday at the Bay St. Louis American Legion Home on Wednesday from 3 to 8 p.m.

The Hancock County Blood Bank has been around for many years and provides a very vital service for our community.

One never knows when they or a member of their family will need blood.

The quota for the drawing is 100 units, so there will be a need for many residents to participate.

The drawing is open to persons who are physically able 17 years and older. We hope to see you at the blood drawing Wednesday at the Legion home on Green Meadow Road.

Many folks have been trying for years to get the Texas Flat Road surfaced.

This past year the road from Highway 603 to the entrance of McLeod Park was surfaced.

It is good to see a strong push once again to have the road completely surfaced from McLeod to Highway 607 at the back entrance of the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant at NSTL.

One thing which has been noticed is an increase in the use of McLeod Park since the road has been blacktopped.

It is good to see our supervisor crews are working on the drainage of the Texas Flat Road.

The road is not a new one, as we can remember when a bombing range was located on it during World War II.

We are looking forward to the day when all of Texas Flat Road will be surfaced.

A big event will be happening at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club on Thursday night.

The Hancock County Humane Society will have an 'Artists for the Animals' showing of fine oils, acrylics, watercolors, and drawings.

The event will take place from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the Yacht Club on North Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis.

Following the preview party at the Yacht Club, the paintings will be on sale at the Bay St. Louis Library starting Friday, Feb. 13, through Feb. 20. Proceeds from the paintings go to the Hancock County Humane Society. Many of you know the fine job the Humane Society has done over the years in helping control animal populations in the area.

The volunteers are all dedicated and work very hard towards their goals.

If you have a wall in your home where you would like to place a painting, this may be a good time for you to make your selection. In doing so you will also be helping a very good cause.

Admission is free for the 'Artists for the Animals' and, of course, admission is always free at our libraries.

Since 1975 Tree Planting Week has been an annual event. In 1986 all 82 counties participated. With 56,000 Mississippi school children at 490 schools taking part in the event. More than five million trees were planted throughout the state during this observance.

Trees will be given away at the Mississippi Forestry Commission office behind Hancock General on Dunbar Ave. in Bay St. Louis and at the Soil Conservation Service located on Hwy. 603 in Kiln.

Dates for these giveaways are Feb. 11-12 from 8 a.m. to noon at the Forestry Commission and from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. at the Soil Conservation Service.

A variety of trees are available, with limited quantities at each location. These include 100 bald cypress, 100 ash, 300 poplar, 200 sycamore, 300 cherry bark oak, and 200 autumn olive. All of these great for this area. Tree Planting Week is a good time for the Mississippi landowners to check the need of their timberlands and make plans for a forestry program that will benefit them in the future. Also, a perfect time for the individual homewoners to enhance the beauty of his homesite with these lovely trees.

Housekeeping

Weekly Summary. from Mississippi House of Representatives

> By Andrew Reese House Information Officer

Mississippi's beleaguered highway system was a focal point for two days of legislative debate in the House of Representatives as state lawmakers completed the fourth week of the 1987 session by narrowly approving a major fourlane road program.

A majority of legislators indicated they agree on the need for additional four-lane highways around the state. But, House members were sharply at odds over specifics such as size, cost and how to finance the pro-tion where a similar highway bill-but with different funding provisions-has been approved. The House and Senate must resolve differences before the legislation can be sent to the governor.

The bill needed a 3/5th majority for passage and was approved 69-46, getting exactly the minimum number of votes requireed, to climax two days of debate.

The measure failed by seven votes the first day it was called up to get the 3/5th majority, but the House agreed to reconsider the bill the following day. This time it was pass-

The House voted for a revised plan to finance the program that includes a tax increase of about 3.6 cents per gallon on gasoline and 3.3 cents on diesel fuel, but would not require issuance of new longterm highway bonds. An earlier version called for a tax increase of 2 cents per gallon on motor fuel and other revenue features, including issuance of bonds as necessary. The original bill had included a 5-cent increase in motor fuel taxes.

The House rejected attempts to include additional highways or shift construction priorities. An amendment also was defeated that sought to substitute a bond-financed, 450-mile highway program as proposed by the governor.

Under the plan approved by the House, the construction program would be financed by raising the state excise taxes on motor fuel but removing the current 6 percent sales tax on fuel. This would, in effect,

However, some changes in the bill or additional legislation apparently will be neded to carry out the intent of removing the sales tax on fuel since the sales tax portion of the law was not in legislation.

In addition, a portion of the federal highway money received by the state would be earmarked for the new program, along with a portion of the proceeds from the road contractor's tax. Other funding features include a $5 registration fee on motor vehicles, replacing the present $5 safety inspection fee that would be repealed, and use of money that would become available as debt requirements decrease on some old

The House was preparing this week for an upswing in floor action as well as committee work. More than 40 bills covering a variety of topics were approved last week by committees, ranging from a proposed overhaul of the Mississippi Memorial Stadium Commission to a measure raising the compulsory school attendance age to 16 over a three-year period.

Numerous other bills were still being discussed in committee at the start of the current week covering such important issues as insurance, farm problems, education, business laws and constitutional revision.

In other recent action, the House voted to allow school boards to lease certain 16th Section School Lands for a maximum term of 40 years. The measure would bring state law in line with a constitutional amendment raising the maximum lease from 25 to 40 years on school trust lands classified as industrial, commercial, farm-residential, residential and recreational. It does not involve agriculture and forest lands.

The constitutional amendment was ratified by the people in a state referendum last fall. The House passed bill contains a requirement that leases include a 10-year rent adjustment provision on industrial and commercial property.

Originally, the rent adjustment feature applied to all classes of land covered by the bill but a number of lawmakers felt this could have a negative impact on leasing property for residential use. The bill was amended to exclude residential and farm-residential land from the rent adjustment provision.

In addition, the House approved a number of technical revisions in the comprehensive Mississippi Election Code passed in the 1966 legislative session; made some procedural changes in the law providing for a legislative hearing on proposed rall abandonments in the state; granted authority to the school boards of newly organized school systems to help provide for an orderly transi-tion; and voted to make sure that county jails housing state insustes are covered under the law prohibiting illegal drugs, liquor and weapons on prison property.

House and Senate members met in a solemn, joint session for a visit by Air Force Major Terence Henricks, a NASA astronaut, marking the anfityeracy of the space shuttle challenger tragedy. Here has was in Mississippi to return it replies of the state that which had been shound the

The Lithotripter: The Alternative to Kidney Stone Surgery

Kidney stones are a painful and commonplace human ailment. And, until very recently, major surgery was the usual treatment.

Now there is the lithotripter, an advanced machine that focuses low-intensity shock waves on the brittle stones and crumbles them into pieces small/enough to be flushed from the body in urnation.

Lithotripsy involves little or no discomfort, requires no incision at all, and reduces hospitalization for kidney stone removal to a matter of a day or so, rather than weeks.

In fact, many lithotripsies are performed on an outpatient

When it is carried out by a skilled and experienced medical team, lithotripsy has a success rate of approximately 97

The Gulf South's most experienced and respected lithotripsy center is Louisiana Lithotripter, Inc., at Tulane University Hospital — created by a group of 37 kidney spe-cialists in Mississippi and Louisiana. LLI has performed well over 650 lithotripsies in the past year, and Tulane is one of only 16 medical centers in the country accredited by the American Urological Association to train physicians in the use of lithotripsy.

If you would like further information, consult your physician, or call us.

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Silver Valentine Tea spon-sored by the St. Monica Guild in Pass Christian will be Friday, Feb. 13 from 3 to 5 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Albert Flettrich, 549 East Scenic Dr., Pass Christian.

The annual tea originated in 1930 when the late Mrs. H. R. Kilpatrick of The Pink Cottage gave a tea honoring the memory of her mother, Mrs. Lelia Abby French of Natchez Proceeds from the tea are used by the St. Monica's Guild to fund various church and community related projects.

This year's site for the tea is known as the Judge Baker Cottage and located in Scenic Drive Historic

The antebellum cottage has been listed in the National Register of Historic Places since 1979.

The one-story frame, five-bay cottage has an inset gallery with brick between post construction in the front gallery wall.

Committee chairman for the tea includes Mrs. Theodore Moore, hospitality; Mrs. Randolph Buck, invitations: Mrs. A.M. Dantzler and Mrs. Denby Garrison, flowers; Mrs. James Mowry, publicity; and Mrs. James Carroll and Mrs. Clyde Bell, refreshments; and Mrs. Richard

BEGINNING SEWING

Beginning sewing classes will be conducted Monday, 10 a.m. beginning Feb. 16 at the Hancock County Extension Service meeting room, 725-A Dunbar Avenue.

The five week series will cover basic clothing construction informs-tion and participants will complete a garment in class.

Class size is limited so pre-register today by calling 467-5456. SEW EASY: PLAIDS Plain is a fabric design created by stripes in the lengthwise and crossesses directions These stripes right angled to form a four-skiled block, and each block is called a

TYPES OF PLAID DESIGNS

There are two types of plaid fabric even and uneven The arrangement of stripes, sizes and colors within a repeat determines whether a plaid ik eyen or uneven. Sequence in spacing and color bands in an even plaid are the same in lengthwise and crosswise direc-tions. Therefore, the color bands form a perfect square or balanced or bands running differently lengthwise or crosswise on in both directions.

It is easier to sew with an even plaid than an uneven one. However, uneven plaids can be successfully made into attractive garments. PATTERN SELECTION

Choose a pattern using a plaid fabric or a pattern with a few pieces, straight lines and minimum number of seeing. Avoid style lines that are curvy because they make working with a plate more difficult.

Do not meets plate if the pattern envelope states 'Not suitable for plactuate on 'or "Not suitable for participation of the par notes "Extra fabric needed to match plaids," then you can safely use that pattern with both even and uneven

EXTRA YARDAGE

You need to buy extra fabric for proper matching and placing of the plaid. Generally add one-fourth to one-half yard for small or average-size plaids and an extra one-half to one yard for large plaids. Small plaids are easier to match than large ones, and uneven plaids require the most extra fabric.

Additional information on sewing with plaids is available from the County Extension Service. Ask for Information Sheet 1810.

Clubs, Auxiliaries

Hancock Women's Club

The annual meeting of the Hancock Women's Club, at which election of officers will be held, is scheduled for 11:30 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 12 at the home of Julia Loup, 620 Central Ave., Waveland.

The board of directors of the club will provide lunch to attendees. Please bring canned or packaged food items for donation to the Hancock County Food Pantry.

Hancock Medical Center Women's Auxiliary

Even though the weather was inclement, 23 women attended the monthly meeting of the Hancock Medical Center Women's Auxiliary. Hopefully, our next meeting will be at the new hospital on Drinkwater, March 5, at 10 a.m. Ina Piazza, president, opened the meeting with a prayer reading. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Ursula Favre. Selma George gave the treasurer's report.

Alvina Nichols and Claire Conway were new additions to the auxiliary. We now have 43 members, but more members are needed.

The revised by-laws were discussed and passed by the membership. They will be presented to the hospital board for review. It was agreed Robert's Rules of Order will be followed.

Theresa Bourgeois, vice president in charge of volunteers, explained the need for members being responsible for the days they volunteer. Any emergencies causing absence must be reported to Theresa, whose phone number is 467-7792. New members who need uniforms may contact Professional Uniform Service on Broad St. in Gulfport. The standard uniform may be accompanied by white slacks or skirt and white shoes. The Loaning Closet is almost bare! A request is made to the community for any hospital equipment such as hospital beds, wheel-chairs, canes or medical care equipment. These items will be greatly appreciated for the Loaning Closet. Call Ina Piazza about donations at 467-5258.

The memorial fund will generate money for scholarships to be awarded to qualified persons going into some phase of the medical profession. Requests for consideration may be made to the auxiliary.

The community is reminded that Rosemary Laigast and Gloria Haden will be on hand Tuesday, Feb. 10 at the annex building of the hospital to take blood pressure. These auxiliary members of the hospital are available every other Tuesday 10 a.m. to noon to take blood pressures.

Meeting adjourned at 10:45 a.m. and coffee was served.

266 reports filed with highway patrol's missing person unit

A review of activities within the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol's Missing Persons Unit reinforces the fact that such a unit is an important resource to the state's law enforcement community, according to James L. Roberts Jr., commissioner of public safety.

After 27 months of existence, the unit has become an integral part of the information receiving and dissemination process when missing persons' reports are filed, Roberts

He said the unit was created almost gratuitously within the Criminal Investigation Bureau of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol as a service to benefit the citizens and law enforcement community in Mississippi.

Roberts said prior to its existence, the state was without a centralized repository designed to receive, maintain and disseminate information on persons reported as missing.

As of Jan. 22, 1987, the age categories and number of persons on file as missing in the Mississing Per-provide only minimal services and it sons Unit, include: Number Missing

"Maintaining centralized records on persons missing in Mississippi is peeded to aid in state investigating agencies, and for out-of-state authorities to have a main point of contact for a listing of persons reported missing from Mississippi,' the commissioner said. Roberts said Gov. Bill Allain, as well as others, recognized the critical need for such a statewide record keeping system as a means of providing assistance to the families of persons whose whereabouts are unknown, while simultaneously establishing a central location for law enforcement agencies to report and receive information on missing

"It was our general feeling that establishing such a unit would be beneficial, even if we were able to

What is repentance? Peter said,

"Repent, then, and turn to God, so that your sins may be wiped out."

(Acts 3:19 NIV) Jesus said, "...I tell you the truth, unless you change and become like little children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven."

(Matthew 18:3) Repentance is turning from the wrong practice to the right practice. Repentance, then, is a change of mind followed by a reformation of life. Paul said, "For godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of: but sorrow of the world worketh death."

(II Corinthians 7:10) One may be filled with remorse, but that is not repentance. One may repent of a wrong deed to his fellowman but unless he regrets wronging God, he has not repented of his sin against

Judas made an effort to give back the thirty pieces of silver with which he betrayed his Lord but he did not repent. Instead he went out and hung himself. His body hung until it fell to the ground. (Acts 1:18; Matthew 27:5) Jesus said of Judas, "...It had been good for that man if he had never been born." (Matthew 26:24) wanted to buy the power from the apostles in order that he might impart the Holy Spirit to others. Peter rebuked him, "But Peter said unto him, thy money perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of God may be purchased with money. Thou hast neither part nor was hoped that funding would be made available to provide adequate manpower and resources for storing and mainfaining such records," Roberts said.

He said there was no way of knowing at the time the unit was organized and staffed in 1984 that the onetime early retirement option offered to officers of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol would result in 128 of its sworn personnel leaving the agency in mid-1966.

Since the early retirement, the unit has been without a full-time staff. It is now being handled by an investigator whose additional responsibilities include administering polygraph examinations, conducting field investigations and gathering and maintaining criminal intelligence records.

"Currently," Roberts said, "filing reports with the Missing Persons Unit is strictly voluntary on the part of law enforcement agencies in Mississippi. The same voluntary reporting exists in informing the unit when a missing person has been located. Many of the names contained on the Missing persons' list are those of runaways.

"While it is true that many runaways return home safely and relatively quickly, no one can assume that this is going to be the case when a young person is reported missing," the commissioner said.

Reports on missing persons are taken from law enforcement agencies instead of individuals. Families of missing persons should contact authorities at their local law enforcement agency who in turn may file a report with the Missing Persons Unit. "As with any type of important situation that needs the attention of the law enforcement community, the more information that is circulated the better the chances that the situation will be resolved. "Fortunately there is not a great number of young children missing in Mississippi, so far as we know at this time. The eight or so children under the age of 10 currently listed as missing are believed to be the subject of parental dispute. However, we remain concerned about all missing children, whether they are runaways, throwaways or abducted by a noncustodial parent, and we shall always endeavor to act accordingly," Moderus

"We hope the unit will become recognized as having the potential to be an assistance-providing, necessary repository for storing information on persons whose whereabouts are unknown," he add-

"We would like to see the Legislature provide funds for adequate staff and equipment, and designate the unit as a central clearinghouse for staring data on persons reported as missing in the State of Mississippi," Roberts said.

"The Legislature has always been as generous as possible when appropriating funds to the Department of Public Safety and its components. Its members have seen to it that we have been able to provide more and better law enforcement services to the citizens of this state, and for their past generosity, we are grateful. We think for the Missing Persons Unit to be more effective, adequate funding is needed," he

REPENTANCE

The weakness and ignorance of man has brought sin in the world. Sin is a "transgression of the law." (I John 5:17) The consequence of sin is eternal death. (Romans 6:23) But God's love for man caused him to send his only begotten Son to die on the cross of calvary that the world should not perish. (John 3:16) Salvation is a gift (Romans 6:23; Ephesians 2:80)

However the gift is conditional upon obedience. The writer of Hebrews stated, "Though he were a Son, yet learned he obedience by the things which he suffered; and being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him." (Hebrews 5:89)

If an antomobile dealer were to tell one, if you will come to my place of business and take the key and put it in the ignition and crank the motor you may own that automobile. If one met the conditions, the automobile would be his. The automobile would not have been earned. It would be a Meeting the conditions of salvation does not merit salvation. Jesus said, " So likewise, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you say, we are unprofitable servants: we have done that which was our duty to do." (Luke 17:10)

One of the conditions of salvation is repentance. Jesus said, "I tell you, nay: but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." (Luke 13:3) To the people of Athens Paul said, "And the time of ignorance

Take caution when buying frozen foods

By Ann O. Rushing

February is full of bolidays and special occasions that make mealtime exciting - Valentine Day, famous birthdays and many opportunities for serving special foods.

Many foods you choose for special occasions may be in the frozen form. Buying quality frozen fruits and vegetables is a greater challenge than buying canned ones. Once you've found a reliable brand of a canned item, you can be fairly sure that each repeat purchase will be the same quality. This is not true of frozen foods, because their quality retention is so dependent on constant low temperatures from the processor to your table.

Brands and sometimes grade marks on frozen food packages gives a clue to the quality of the product before and during processing. The label tells characteristics of the original fresh product. For example, whole baby okra is more tender than cut okra, and broccoli spears are likely to be more tender than chop ped broccoli.

These and other important bits of information appear on frozen fruit and vegetable packages. The most important quality control measure constant low temperature - is not written on packages. Sometimes you can judge quality before purchasing, but more often you cannot.

Most commercially frozen fruits and vegetables will maintain top quality for a year at 0 degrees F, but for each degree increase in temperature, storage life is shorten-

In retail frozen food counters, there are three common signs of fluctuating temperatures. The most obvious is softness of packages, which indicates that food is at least partly thawed and may have been for several days. Ice covered packages and products packed above the freezer-fill line are signs that some contents of that frozen food counter are, or have been, partially thawed.

When you buy a package of frozen food and open it, the most immediate sign of fluctuating temperature damage is a large deposit of frost or ice crystals inside the package. This excess frost buildup is sometimes caused from. insufficient packaging. However, frost inside an adequate package results quickly from temperature changes when partially thawed foods release moisture into the package to be refrozen when the temperature is lowered. Once the food has thawed and been refrozen, the damage cannot be undone.

While most of the time you buy frozen fruits and vegetables to use within a few days, sometimes you keep them longer. Since frozen food quality is affected by both length of storage and temperature, your available home storage for frozen food helps determine how long you should keep frozen fruits and vegetables after purchase.

Ideally, you should store frozen foods in the ice compartment of an old-fashioned refrigerator for no longer than two weeks. You can stone them in the freezing compartment of a combination refrigeratorfreezer for about three months. In a regular from food chest at 0 to 10:

degrees F, they will maintain quality for six months to a year. Select your foods for special occasions with care. Then store them properly for greatest satisfaction.

The Board of Trastees of the Hancack County School District will receive scaled bids until 4:80 P.M. Friday, February 27, 187 in the office of the Superintendent of Education, Administrative Offices, Stannis Field, Hwy. 863, Bay St. Louis, MS for fearing at Gulfriew Elementary School.

BEEF APPRECIATION DAY

The Mississippi legislature designated Feb. 4 Beef Appreciation Day in Mississippi as a way to commend the beef industry. National Meet Month is February.

The occasion is the beef industry's way of telling consumers about the positive aspects of beef. Beef Appreciation Day recognized those who buy and sell American beef.

The Cattle Industry Board, the Mississippi Cattlemen's Association, the Mississippi Cattlewomen's Association, and the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce all worked together to establish Beef Appreciation Day.

PLANNING FOR 1987-SOYBEANS Making ends meet with soybean:. in 1987 under current prices is going to be a tough chore for most Hancock County farmers.

Budgets prepared by our Extension specialists at Mississippi State University show that land not capable of producing 30 bushels of soybeans per acre probably should be diverted to a more profitable use, if possible.

At current prices farmers must find ways to lower per-bushel pro duction costs below $5. It may b possible to boost yields and reduce unit costs, but in many cases the only way is to trim production costs.

Major places to look for possible cost cutting are tillage, lime, fer tilizer and herbicide expenses. You may be able to find some room for adjustment in these big-ticket items.
